(U//FOUO) The National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency (NGA), Office of Eurasia-Africa is hosting the first annual "Africa Day" conference. The conference will address contemporary political, military, economic, and other issues pertinent to today's Africa. The purpose of this conference is to promote issue awareness and collaboration within the Intelligence Community on a full spectrum of Africa issues, as well as to build robust analyst networks and to serve the IC partners and military customers. This venue provides an opportunity for analysts from across the IC to meet customers and decision makers.

(S) Presentations will be given by NGA, NSA, DIA, CIA, DO/CTC, and the National Intelligence Officer for Africa. NSA's featured speaker is Mr. [REDACTED] NSA SINIO for Africa, who will address some the challenges encountered in producing SIGINT on Sub-Saharan targets and the measures NSA has taken to overcome them. The brief will present a snapshot of NSA's current posture, and how issues such as the Global War On Terrorism and globalization are being addressed. The conference agenda can be found at the following webpage on Intelink :

(U//FOUO) To register for the conference, employees should send an e-mail including their name, organization, social security number, and work telephone number to: [REDACTED]. Parking at NGA HQs is somewhat limited, especially during the mid-week; therefore, attendees are encouraged to carpool or take the shuttle that has been reserved to go from NSA to NGA for the event. (Details about how to ride the special shuttle will be provided to all who register.)

(U) Here are directions to NGA Bethesda (on Intelink):
